

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Thank you from the Chamber of Commerce:

Volunteer of the Week, Donna Fathke

Donna is a native of Chicago and has been involved with the Chamber while working as the Principle Planner for the East Alabama Regional Planning and Development Commission for the past 15 years. Her job entails numerous economical development tasks, such as grant writing and managing revolving loan funds for various small businesses.

Her most active participation with the Chamber consists of the small business committee, although she works with any project that coincides with economical development. For instance, her most recent involvement was assisting in the development of writing the grant for the Anniston Army Depot to the office of economic adjustment in order to receive help with the project of reemploying the workers at the Chemical Demilitarization Facility. The project has since been sub-contracted to the Chamber in order to be implemented.

Donna also works closely with the Economical Development Center, which is housed in the Chamber, by creating new infrastructure when new businesses come to the area.

"Volunteering at the Chamber makes me feel like a useful member of the community," said Donna. "It helps me meet more people so that the Commission and I can be more helpful to the community, as far as economical development."

Donna urges all businesses in Calhoun County to join the Chamber.

"It is one of the best ways to market your business in the community, and there are numerous support functions the Chamber provides to their members."
